SPORTS ON REVIEW, by H.C.O.

Some years ago, on a Friday evening in the Egg station, a number of young hockey players gathered to organise a team. They endeavored to reorganise a club which had long carried on the work of a junior club. They did succeed, and were known as the junior, later the intermediate hockey club. Thus started one of the greatest machines for producing players this town has ever known. Two years ago its name was changed to win on hitting power. Oh! what price for a few Hubbeis! As a result, by July the ball season was over, and a failure.

About the middle of June, late in the season, the tennis club reorganised. One court was opened up. A poor season was expected. In two weeks' time the other court was opened. A large enrolment was seen, and tennis was going over with a crash! Expenses were cut, courts kept in good shape, depression prices prevailed, 2 socials were held in connection with the golf club, and the season had ended as the best in the last 5 years. Thus in the summer of a ball failure we see a tennis and golf success.

The senior club has long been organised, and has experienced the ups and downs in times of both depression and progression. Last year, starting out with a gloomy front, a few players were switched, and the team had a most successful year. Contrast the two, one succeeds, the other fails. What will the future bring?

Stony has always had a ball team. Last year they opened up with a bang! They had the Hitters, and, like the Senators, expected to win on hitting power. Oh! what price for a few Hubbeis! As a result, by July the ball season was over, and a failure.

About the middle of June, late in the season, the tennis club reorganised. One court was opened up. A poor season was expected. In two weeks' time the other court was opened. Thus in the summer of a ball failure we see a tennis and golf success.

No mention has been made of sports for the fair sex. They, no doubt, have carried on. They have played their basketball, and no small part of the lions share of the past glory goes to them. They, too, deserve credit.

Today we stand on the threshold of a new hockey season. What will be the outcome? 'Tis, as yet, hard to see. No matter what, these clubs deserve your support, and it would be a queer town without them.

Stony Plain and District

The members of the Junior Hockey club will hold a pre-season banquet at Christie's Cafe tonight (Thursday) Eve. Every Junior player is welcome. This is not a reorganization meeting.

Reeve Howat and Secretary Best of Inga M. D. were in conference here on Wednesday, with reference to a re-arrangement of the District's banking system.

The local Manse has had another chimney built on it, the work being done by Hugh McKinnon.

Hard Time Dance, Holborn Hall. Sponsored by the U.F. W. A. Barth's orchestra, great time planned.

The Season's Big Event.

With the record Duffield's athletic club holds for its many very successful sports meets, it would seem there was no further honor to be gained by it along this line; but the card offered by them for tomorrow (Friday) night at the New Ukrainian Hall, near Carvel Corner, shows they do not intend to rest on laurels won, but are pressing forward to a new high mark.

A glance at the names on the bill of fare indicates there will be "somethin' doin'" following the first stroke of the gong. Along with a few well-known performers who have previously shown their wares to the club's patrons, are a few new ones which that energetic sports scout Andrew Blass has rounded up for the occasion, and of whom Andy guarantees each will produce the goods when called upon.

With the admission set at depression prices, the hall should be packed by the time the mitts are donned for the first bout.

A dance follows, on one of Alberta's newest and best dance floors.

Stanley Baldwin Gives An Insight Into The National Character Of The British People

Mr. Stanley Baldwin is one of the broadcasters in a series of talks on "National Character." He has himself in a marked degree the characteristics commonly ascribed to the English. He ought to be able to speak with authority. It is not necessary to follow him in his journey from Britain under the Romans. What is the English character now? No discovery about it is to be expected. Who could stomach an Englishman that didn't grumble? Mr. Baldwin grumbles every day; but "I do not worry and I keep cheerful." So do the English people. And they are "always serene in times of difficulty." That is a trait to be proud of. The English have had their senseless panics and scares, but Mr. Baldwin is justified in saying that "we have staying power; we are not rattled."

When one remembers the years of unemployment and high taxes, one is forced to believe that there must have been a good deal more worrying than Mr. Baldwin takes into account. Still from "British phlegm," or whatever cause, the English are fine lads to stand with their backs against the wall. While more emotion than is generally believed, their cultivation of the art of repression makes a brave show in days of disaster or of doubt—perhaps still more trying.

English humor and laughter are "stock" characteristics, in Mr. Baldwin's view. Over here the humorist Englishman has been and may yet such a figure, "kindliness, sympathy, with the under-dog, love of home" are other distinctive English qualities. It may be travelling out of the record to say that they are also American, or that the English were long able to hide their sympathy with the Irish. The strong individuality of the Englishman is familiar. He likes to develop it, Mr. Baldwin tells us. In this country it may seem to be somewhat in a decline. Individualism as they are, the English know how to co-operate nationally. Americans are now manifesting the same faculty. Our old friend, "ordered liberty," is a well known English possession. Many Englishmen, as many Americans in their own case, are often inclined to think that they are getting too little liberty and too many orders. But let us hear Mr. Baldwin and share his hope.

With our pertinacity, with our love of ordered freedom, with our respect for law, with our respect for the individual and our talent for combining in service, indeed, in our strength and in our weakness, I believe from my heart that our people are fitted to pass through whatever trials may be before us, and to emerge, if they are true to their own best traditions, a greater people in the future than they have been in the past.

So may it be with Americans, though "respect for law" can hardly be included among their conspicuous virtues.—New York Times.

Harbors And Isolation

Countries Just Now Have Little Use For Transoceanic Facilities

At Cherbourg it would appear that the new harbor improvements are not yet completed. The authorities would therefore seem to be a bit premature in worrying because the big steamship companies continue to make use of tenders instead of coming alongside the docks. It is now stated that some dredging remains to be done on the new channel.

A great new port at Cherbourg, extensive improvements at Southampton and pressure for longer piers in our own North River would at first sight be quite out of the current of the times so to speak. Why improve transoceanic facilities when all the nations are going Diogenes, each seeking prosperity and happiness in its own tub?

New docks and new giant liners may be folly, or may be the self-assertion of a healthy instinct against the vagaries of the times. There are still people willing to gamble on the chance that the nation may want to resume doing business with each other and visiting each other.—New York Times.

Britain's New Problem

Dole Is Attracting Many Features Back To Homeland

For thirty years Britain has sent abroad to seek their fortunes some 200,000 emigrants yearly. This has added the old country as well as the virtue and enterprising migrants to other lands. There were failures, most of whom were that before they left their homeland. However, the tide has turned. For the first time no British subjects have left the homeland and 6,000 have gone back to the mother country. These constitute a problem there for the dose attracts some failures back voluntarily and some are deportees, undesirable anywhere. With months to feed at home and new doses demanded the problem is giving Britain some concern.—Brandon Sun.

The Newspaper Habit

People Only Become Daily Readers Half Century Ago

At Yarmouth, England, on Sept. 14, 1853, two small boys, brothers, called at the office of the local evening journal and asked for a job selling papers. They were taken on, and that night sold six dozen each, and earned 1s. 6d. One of these brothers is the present Mayor of Yarmouth. The other is Alderman Ernest James Middleton, J.P., who was Mayor in 1922 and again in 1926. He is the head of a company with many branches engaged in the wholesale newspaper trade. In an interview on the fifty years in the newspaper trade, Alderman H. J. Middleton said that when he began his career less than half the inhabitants could read, but the Board Schools were beginning their good work, and fathers took home the evening paper for their better educated children to read the news to them after tea. London papers were only taken by bookstellers and stationers to order, and a system was in vogue for lending out the Times for so long at 1d. per hire. Buying a paper daily was then considered a luxury. It was Queen Victoria's jubilee in 1867, which caused people to become daily paper readers, national interest was keen, and persons who had begun to "taste" a paper formed the habit. The Boer War gave a great fillip to the new custom.—London Times.

Disagrees With "Food Faddists"

Eat What You Like In Moderation Says Old Doctor

Eat what you fancy. This is the advice of a famous English physician, Sir James Crichton-Browne, and it was given after he had eaten an eight-course dinner given by the Institute of Certificated Grocers at which he was a speaker. He is 93 years of age. Sir James expressed strong disagreement with what he called "food faddists" and said he always ate what he liked and advised his patients to do the same—but in moderation. "About food the most ardent and fantastic nonsense is talked and written," Sir James said. "Every kind of food is alternately lauded as life-saving and denounced as a poison. The faddists and the cranks are never at rest." The man with a good appetite, a clean palate and commonsense, may go on contentedly consuming the varied foods to which he has been accustomed without risk, he said.

Claims Glider Record

What is claimed by the Moscow press as a world record in stunt flying in a glider was achieved by Pilot F. Stepanchenko at Koktebel, Crimea, where a glider school functions. Stepanchenko made 184 somersaults, 13 tailspins and a series of other trick manoeuvres in a glider during a single flight.

Canada has about 350 million acres of land suitable for farming purposes, and of this total 163 and one-half millions are in occupied farms, of which nearly 96 million acres are improved land.

Great Britain Has Attained The Strongest Financial Position Of Any Country In The World

A Bumper Apple Crop

Commercial Yield Is Estimated At 1,600,000 Barrels

A bumper crop of apples is being harvested in Canada this year. The total commercial yield for 1933 is placed at 4,998,000 barrels, an increase of 621,000 barrels over the 1932 production.

Of this year's commercial crop the Province of Nova Scotia will account for 1,846,000 barrels; British Columbia, 1,394,000 barrels; Ontario, 1,064,000 barrels; Quebec, 254,000 barrels and New Brunswick, 40,000 barrels. This year's yield in Nova Scotia is nearly 782,000 barrels more than in 1932. In Ontario the increase is 146,000 barrels compared with last year. In British Columbia the 1933 crop is less than in the previous year.

The total yield of pears this year will be 465,000 bushels, about the same as in 1932. Peaches will, it is estimated, return 825,000 bushels, or about 80,000 bushels below the 1932 production. Plums and prunes will yield 218,000 bushels, a decrease of 64,000 bushels. The total production of grapes is estimated at 44,881,000 pounds or 9,400,000 pounds below the yield in 1932.

Practically all the pears, peaches, plums and grapes grown in Canada for the commercial market come from the provinces of Ontario and British Columbia.

Clings To Old Home

Aged Woman, Remains In House Which Is Being Wrecked

World's End Passage is being demolished, but old Mrs. Kent refuses to quit.

World's End Passage is a block of slum houses in the Chelsea district which have been condemned by the London County Council and Mrs. Kent is a 74-year-old, partially paralyzed tenant whose one room gradually is being pulled down around her.

The old lady steadily has declined the alternative accommodation offered her by the local authorities. It takes her five hours to shuffle to the post-office, 250 yards away, to collect her old-age pension.

Taking No Chances

In the early days of the war the officer in charge of a British station in the heart of Africa received the following wireless message from his superior officer:

"War declared; arrest all enemy aliens in your district."

With commendable promptness, the superior officer received this reply: "I have arrested seven Germans, three Belgians, two Frenchmen, four Italians, one Austrian, and an American. Please say with whom we are at war."

Further cheering trade reports came from different quarters in London, on the heels of the declaration by Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, that Britain has attained the strongest financial position of any country in the world.

September trade figures showed an increase of 16,000,000 in exports over last year, while the greater part of a $3,500,000 increase in imports was in raw materials.

Further production of steel ingots and savings increased by 286,700 tons over the same month last year. Prince George, opening the motor show at the Olympic, pointed to an increase of 27 per cent. in domestic production and of 68 per cent. in motor production for foreign trade.

Coincidental evidence of the strength of the London market, a $12,000,000 conversion loan for South Africa in 3 1/2 per cent. bonds was snapped up immediately, the list being closed within five minutes. This duplicated the experience with Canadian, Australian, British and New Zealand loans in the last few weeks.

Trade pact negotiations are to be opened shortly with Uruguay, Poland, Spain and Italy, Mr. Runciman announced. Presumably these will be modelled after the pacts already concluded this year, notably with Argentina and Scandinavian countries.

While a prominent feature of the pacts negotiated with the Scandinavian countries was an undertaking to buy more British coal, Mr. Runciman said British cottons would be given chief attention next. "We are going to make a big effort to place that important industry on a satisfactory basis," he said. "After that we shall turn our attention to steel."

Buffalo In Antipodes

Canadian Buffalo From Wainwright Becomes Acclimatized In Australia

The buffalo which were donated by the National Parks Service of the Canadian Department of the Interior to the South Australian Zoological and Acclimatization Society have had to adapt themselves to a reversal of the seasons. In November, 1929, three buffalo, two cows and one bull, were shipped by the National Parks of Canada from Buffalo National Park, Wainwright, Alberta, to Adelaide, Australia. Precautions were taken for the health of the animals on the journey and after a trip of some ten thousand miles, they arrived at their destination in splendid condition. The animals were given a great reception, but they were not properly looked for the occasion because they arrived in January, 1930, one of Australia's hottest months, and were unable at the moment to discard their heavy Canadian winter coats. Within six months, however, they had adapted themselves to the reversed climatic conditions, and in a letter of June 26, 1933, (midwinter), from the Director of the South Australian Zoological Gardens, it is stated that the animals were in their winter coats, were looking very well, and that so far they had reared one calf, which is now about twelve months old, and which promises to grow into a very fine bull.

Not Only The President

List Of Qualifications Go For Prime Minister Too

Graville Kleiser, writing in New York Evening Post says:

Sir—To be a satisfactory President of the United States, a man must possess many qualifications. Of these I suggest the following:

The patience of a Job.
The perspicacity of a Plato.
The strength of a Hercules.
The wit of a Rebekah.
The courage of a Horatius.
The eloquence of a Demosthenes.
The wisdom of a Solomon.
The gentleness of a dove.
The silence of a Sphinx.
The universality of a Shakespeare.
The Post adds: "And a Rhin's skin."

England will import more than one-third of its fruit this year from other empire countries.

MUSSOLINI FOR UNITED FRONT ON DISARMAMENT

Geneva, Switzerland.—Premier Mussolini of Italy was credited with indefatigable efforts to unite European powers, including Germany, in a discussion of disarmament at Stresa, Italy.

At the same time information from Berne, the Swiss capital, indicated a determination to safeguard Swiss neutrality in the event the peace of Europe was threatened.

The report reached here that the Italian leader had asked other powers regarding the feasibility of further conversations on disarming.

Poland was said to have been asked whether she would approve such a project and to have replied that she wants all the problems considered at Geneva.

London, Eng.—The full cabinet of 10 ministers deliberated for two hours over the situation arising from Germany's precipitate abandonment of the world disarmament conference.

It was understood the ministers reached no decision on the subject of future policy and the stand to be taken when the arms conference resumes at Geneva. The necessary conversations with other powers are still in progress.

It was learned, however, the cabinet was in full agreement with the stand taken by Sir John Simon, secretary for foreign affairs, in his controversy with Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the German foreign minister, who charged Sir John misrepresented Germany's arms demands to the United States.

Motor Car Of Future

Radical Departure From Conventional Lines Is Predicted

Toronto, Ont.—The motor car of the future will have three wheels, two at the front and one at the rear. The motor will also be at the rear, according to Frank S. Spring, of Detroit, in discussing transportation of the future before the Canadian section, Society of Automotive Engineers here.

It was not possible to design a perfectly stream-lined car with four wheels, he said. Another revolution in design would be the placing of the two front wheels outside the body proper. Cutting down wind resistance depended upon reducing the frontal area of a car and this could not be done if the wheels had to be included in the front width of the body design.

He predicted engineers would soon have a car that could take off and fly.

Edmonton-Jasper Highway

Proposal Made To Complete All-Weather Road

Edmonton, Alberta.—A proposal which will mean completion of an all-weather highway from Edmonton to Jasper has been made to the Dominion by the provincial government.

This announcement was made recently by Hon. O. L. McPherson, Minister of Public Works.

The offer is that the province is prepared to supply equipment for federal gravel camps along the highway this winter if the Dominion will give assurance that it will place the 87 miles of grade east of the park boundary in shape to receive gravel as soon as weather conditions permit next year.

Rail Conference Continues

Montreal, Que.—From an authoritative source came a denial that formal conferences between the managements of the railway companies and vice-presidents of the running trades employees had come to an end. The negotiations would continue an official of one of the railway companies stated.

Veteran Mounted Dead

Charlottetown.—Sgt. Malcolm Martin MacIntosh, 89, one of the original 73 men in the Royal North West Mounted Police, now the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, is dead here. He sailed at Toronto in 1878 and was pensioned in 1898.

Central Manitoba Mines President Dies Suddenly

Suffers Heart Attack On Train En Route To Toronto

Winnipeg, Man.—En route to his home in Toronto, A. D. Miles, president of Central Manitoba Mines, Limited, and a former managing director of the International Nickel Company, died aboard a Canadian Pacific Railway train October 17.

Stricken with a heart attack, Mr. Miles was dead when medical aid was obtained at Whittemore, Man. He had appeared in excellent health when he left here early in the evening, associates said.

For many years Mr. Miles had been associated with mining and industrial enterprises in eastern Canada.

Mrs. Miles, living in Toronto, survives.

He was born in Allentown, Pa., educated in New York City and at New York and Yale Universities. After taking his B.Ph. degree at Yale, he became instructor in chemistry, geology and mineralogy there.

In 1905 Mr. Miles relinquished tutorial work to engage in mining activities. He was a former president of the Ontario Mining Association.

Enforcing Blue Eagle Laws

President Roosevelt Issues Order Covering Compliance With Regulations

Washington.—A two-sided executive order designed to force compliance with the blue eagle provisions of the presidential agreement was issued by President Roosevelt.

The order called for a fine of $500 and six months' imprisonment for any person falsely representing himself to be operating under the agreement or displaying the blue eagle insignia while not complying with its provisions.

The president's order, issued under specific authority of the industrial laws, also authorized Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, to prescribe further rules amplifying those laid down by the chief executive.

Compromise In Wage Cut

Report In Railway Circles That Agreement Has Been Reached

London, Ont.—Reports were current in railway circles here that a settlement had been effected in the running trades' dispute with Canada's two major railways involving a second 10 per cent. cut in the basic wage.

Rumors were in circulation that the second 10 per cent. cut would be rescinded on November 1, and the first on May 1 next year. It was said also part of the money lost by members of the running trades through the second cut would be refunded to them and that the rest would be applied to their pension fund.

Labor Party Gains In Norway

Recent Elections Give Them Twenty-Two New Seats

Oslo, Norway.—A platform of unemployment relief and opposition to disarmament had carried the Labor Party to big gains in the Norwegian political picture.

Labour emerged from the elections in which 18 parties competed for votes with 22 new seats in parliament and a total of 69.

Conservatives, who lost 10 seats, retained 31; the Liberals, losing nine, 24, and the Agrarians, losing three, 22.

Selective Reciprocity

Victoria, B.C.—The best thing Prime Minister Bennett could do for British Columbia would be a reciprocity treaty with the United States affecting lumber, fish and copper, stated T. D. Pattullo, provincial Liberal leader, in an address. "This," he said, "would bring back 65 per cent. of our lumber market, put more money in our fishermen's pockets and revive the copper mining industry."

Test Case Again Dismissed

Windsor, Ont.—Archibald G. Gignac, Sandwich West township solicitor, was acquitted for the second time on a charge of unlawful establishment and operation of a radio set in his home. The case is regarded as a test of Dominion Government legislation imposing a tax on radio receiving sets.

HEADS COMMERCE

St. Lawrence Waterway

Reported Roosevelt Will Press For Ratification Of Treaty

Washington.—Proponents of the St. Lawrence waterway read into the selection of Colonel Edward M. Markham as chief of United States army engineers a decision by President Roosevelt to press for ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty with Canada at the next session of congress.

January 5 is set as the congress reconvening date.

Markham was elevated to major-general over several ranking officers, this coming after a study by high government officials of the engineer's reports to the state department on the Great Lakes-Atlantic seaway as a member of the Canadian-American joint engineering board.

Conscience Money

Federal Arbitrator Returns $25 To Dominion Treasury

Toronto, Ont.—In a special despatch from his Ottawa correspondent, The Mail and Empire tells of a former federal arbitrator from Winnipeg who returned $25 to the Dominion treasury, explaining the money was a fee received some years ago for acting on an arbitration board.

According to the newspaper, the man declared he had taken no time off from his job when he acted as arbitrator and therefore he now desired to return the fee as his acceptance of it did not harmonize with the teachings of the Oxford group which he had just joined.

Canadian Legion Convention

Ottawa, Ont.—A Dominion convention of the Canadian Legion, to be held "as soon as convenient" during the next session of parliament, has been decided on by the executives of that organization who have been in session in Ottawa during the past few days. Probabilities are that the convention will take place in Ottawa in January or February.

A SCENE FROM THE SENSATIONAL REICHSSTAG TRIAL

One of the most sensational trials of modern times, that of the five men accused of being concerned in the burning down of the Reichstag at Leipzig, Germany. The central figure, Martinus Van der Lubbe, the young Dutchman, who caused a sensation by his insane laughter, hunger strike and "confession," is shown in the picture standing with his wrists manacled while being questioned by the court.

"Royal Scot" Had Engine Trouble

Alkali Water Clogging Pipes Was Blamed For Delay

Pueblo, Colo.—The "Royal Scot" couldn't take it.

Britain's most famous train was towed into Pueblo five hours late. Known abroad as the train that is never late, the "Royal Scot's" engine developed trouble near Eads, Colo. The gradual rise toward the continental divide began near Eads.

Those in charge of the train said alkali water placed in the locomotive in Kansas and the kind of coal which was used had been the cause of the locomotive's trouble. They said the front end of the engine became stopped up, the firebox was clogged with clinkers and the flue sprang leaks.

The train left under its own power for Denver, where it will be put on exhibition. A giant mountain type of engine was following to give it a boost if any more trouble developed.

The delay, the crew said, was the first in the train's 70 years of operation.

Gasoline Sales Higher

Regarded At Ottawa As Sign Of General Activity

Ottawa, Ont.—Sales of gasoline in Canada in July this year exceeded June and were also higher than in July of last year, reports issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics revealed. The amount of gasoline consumed is generally regarded as an indication of general activity.

Sales of gasoline in Canada during July advanced to $6,490,000 gallons from the preceding month's total of 49,293,000 gallons and the July, 1932, sales of $1,551,000 gallons.

Imports of natural casinghead gasoline into Canada during July amounted to 3,619,847 gallons valued at $30,749 as compared with 3,878,771 gallons worth $151,684 imported in June. Gasoline lighter than .8235 specific gravity at 60 degrees temperature imported in July totalled 857,610 gallons appraised at $92,485.

Germany Demands Equality

Chancellor Hitler Says His Country Will Not Be Treated As Second Class Nation

Berlin, Germany.—Chancellor Hitler proclaimed that Germany will participate in no conference or agree to no convention "as long as she is not treated equally."

As if to still reports abroad that the reich may return to the disarmament conference and the League of Nations, the chancellor in a speech to his followers maintained:

"Germany is determined in the future to attend no conference, enter no league, agree to no convention, and sign nothing as long as she is not treated equally."

He bid for the co-operation of his enemies at home and issued a slogan for the reichstag election campaign the sentence, "We simply refuse to be treated as a second class nation!"

PLAN TO PUT LIMIT ON HIGH SALARIES IN U.S.

Washington.—Action to limit high salaries of big business leaders in the United States was privately forecast in official circles, directed by the federal trade commission announced it was asking 2,000 companies to furnish data on the salaries of their executives and directors.

Following President Roosevelt's inquisitive glance at movie salaries, the commission's inquiry was described in informed circles as a prelude to more definite action.

The senate resolution instigating the inquiry ordered the federal reserve board to obtain salary data from all member banks in the reserve system, directed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to report salaries paid by banks borrowing from it and instructed the federal power commission to learn about the compensation of public utility officials.

While no investigation has yet been formulated, some officials expressed the belief that continuous publication of salaries probably would have the effect of keeping them down.

A ruling by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that no public money would be loaned to railroads whose executives were receiving $100,000 and over a year unless they cut their pay soon brought the compensation of three men all well known in the railroad field down to the maximum allowed—$60,000.

Strikingly large salaries are now being paid to life insurance heads, according to Alfred M. Best & Co., insurance reporters, who estimate that the average president's salary of the large companies is $135,000 per year.

Support Stand Of Simon

Says Foreign Secretary Spoke For British Government

Liverpool, Eng.—Viscount Hallam, secretary of war, said the government fully supports Sir John Simon in the stand the secretary for foreign affairs took on disarmament last week in Geneva.

"There is one thing I ought to say because the foreign secretary is hardly able to say it for himself," Viscount Hallam said in a speech.

"The foreign secretary, in what he said at Geneva, was not speaking personally or individually, but as a representative of the British government with the assent of his colleagues."

Sir John and Foreign Minister Von Neurath of Germany, have questioned each other's statements as to developments at Geneva last week. Baron von Neurath maintained Sir John misrepresented the German arms viewpoint to the United States, and the British have offered to publish documents to disprove the accusation.

End Strike

One Stratford Firm Reported To Have Reached Settlement

Stratford, Ont.—First sign of cleavage of the deadlock which has existed between 500 striking Stratford furniture workers and their employers appeared when it was officially announced the workers at the Preston-Noelting Company—one of the largest affected by the strike—and their employees had reached an amicable settlement.

The announcement in the form of a formal statement, was handed out by James Preston, president of the firm, after he had been in conference with the shop committee.

Utterly Against War

Washington.—President Roosevelt said in an address to the nation that no threat to world peace emanates from the United States, for "we are overwhelmingly against war," and as a nation "we are seeking no additional territory at the expense of our neighbors."

A Statutory Holiday

Ottawa, Ont.—Remembrance Day, November 11, is a statutory holiday. Announcement to this effect was made by the state department in response to many inquiries as to whether Remembrance Day was a compulsory holiday.

Swine Breeders' Field Day.

Monday next, October 30th, is Swine Breeders' Day at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe. This swine breeders' day should be of interest and profit to every farmer. During the last five years no branch of farming has brought better returns than hog raising. With the new preference on the British market the next five years should show much higher profits, if we have the right type of hogs.

At this Swine Field Day the proper type of select bacon hog will be demonstrated alive and in Wiltshire sides, as compared with the butcher shop hog, which costs more to raise and is worth $2 less per hog.

Dr Sinclair, University of Alberta, will give a talk and demonstration on the type required in select bacon hogs combined with good feeding qualities. He will also give a demonstration on the type of boars and sows required to produce select bacon hogs.

H E Wilson, Lacombe experimental station, will give an outline of the breeding and feeding experiments under way at his Station, and the advanced registration policy for purebred swine.

S G. Freeborn, Dominion Live Stock Branch, will discuss the different policies for government assistance to farmers in raising hogs.

S G Carlyle, live stock commissioner for Alberta, will discuss the place of the hog in Alberta farming.

The meetings will be held in a comfortably heated garage and the program starts at 1 sharp. Coffee, cream, sugar and cups will be provided for those who bring their lunks.

OCCASIONAL WIFE

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful commercial artist, and Peter Anson, a struggling sculptor, meet in an art class and fall in love. She is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family, but she is not to share in their fortune when she comes of age. They are faced with the problem of "marriage or career" and Camilla does not want to be Peter down when he has so much promise as a sculptor. At an art school dance, Gus Matson, Peter's roommate, who is jealous of Peter's success, takes Camilla out on the lawn to tell her "something she should know about Peter." Gus tells Camilla Peter is a cheat, that he only wants her money, and that he, Gus, loves her himself. At that moment Peter appears on the scene and knocks Gus flat. On the way home from the party Camilla tells Peter they are going to do something about their problem.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIV.

"We are going to be married, soon, Peter, darling," Camilla told him.
"Why—why, honey, we shouldn't dare to!" incredulous.
"Afraid, Peter?"
"For myself? No, of course not."
"For whom?"
"Why—for you! I couldn't take care of you."
"I shouldn't let you! I'll take care of myself—until you succeed."
"I couldn't let you do that," he protested with finality.

SAIL CUNARD ANCHOR-DONALDSON

W. N. U. 2017

"Why couldn't you, Peter? I'll have to do that, anyway, whether I am your wife or not. Why can't I be your wife, too?"

"My wife!" he repeated, with awe. "You would—take that chance, dear, before I have proved to you that I can do anything worth while!"

"I'd take bigger chances than that to have you and your love. Why not? Where is the risk?"

"Well—suppose. And those hours together I suppose I never really amount to much?"

"You would still be you," gently. "Yes, I suppose so."

"Well, Peter, it's you I love and want. Nothing else makes a lot of difference to me, except that I want for you everything that you want to be, for your sake as much as mine."

"Sweetheart!" he gave her a double demonstration of his appreciation. "What a girl!" he exclaimed and laughed tremulously. She clung to him, weak with emotion and reluctant to lose the sweet ecstasy with which it filled her. She was part of the night, its beauty and silence and fragrance, there in his arms with his lips upon hers.

"Don't let me go!" she whispered. "I wish I needn't—ever!" vehemently.

"Then why don't you want to marry me soon?"

"Want to! If I only dared!"

"Then you shall. And it won't make a bit of difference to either of us, financially. We shall live just as we have planned before we met."

"But I can't even provide you a decent place to live," helplessly.

"You won't need to. I just told you that we'll live exactly as we had planned before, except that we shall be together."

"You mean—not even live together?"

"That would be fatal to your work, Peter, and the last thing we should think of doing. I shouldn't consider living with you until you are established. You must not think of taking on the responsibilities of a home until then. But that need not keep us from finding a little happiness."

"That isn't the way it should be," he objected.

"You are so stubborn, darling," she sighed. "Not the way it should be but better than nothing, isn't it? Better than waiting for years—and years—"

"I almost convince me," he drew her close again, eagerly. "Are you sure you wouldn't regret it? I can't tell you how much it would mean to me!"

"You needn't, because I know. But I'll marry you, Peter, only on my terms—that you are to assume no responsibilities whatever, and that we shall live apart until you can afford to take care of me. It is your work I am thinking of, Peter."

"More than me?"

"Of course not. After us. But it means everything to us, doesn't it?"

"That's right."

"Suppose we had to wait five years—ten—to have each other—for love—"

"with one long embrace, she gave him her first voluntary kiss before she continued, "just because of a few stupid dollars that we should need, to live together in the regular way that convention follows."

"I know. I suppose it would be impossible, anyway," he admitted. "We are not children. You are almost twenty-one and I am twenty-five, Camilla. We should know what we want to do. But if you insist upon taking care of yourself, why not combine like other fifty-fifty marriages?"

"Too many of those fail, Peter. No, if we marry, our problem requires an individual solution. When a girl tries to be a business woman, a wife and a housekeeper, she almost always fails in one of the three, and that one is usually in being a wife. It would be even worse for a man like you."

"In the first place, you would travel alone and have more time to brood over trifles. You are sensitive and would feel your responsibility more than the average man. If we lived together, your studio would have to be our home. When I rushed off to my office-hour job and neglected anything, you would feel that you should do the work because your work tied you to no definite hours. More and more, you would become the man at home wearing the apron and feeling sorry for your tired working wife. No, Peter, it never would do for us to live together until you have made good."

"How can you be in love and yet so practical?" he wondered with tender amusement.

"That's not being as practical as it sounds," she laughed softly. "Most of all, I want to keep the romance of our marriage, Peter. We can just go on being lovers—having the excitement and expectation of seeing each other after days of separation. Our holidays—they will be, such happy holidays when we are together for a little while. And those hours together will be so much more precious to us when they are not crowded with housekeeping problems and worries. We shall meet and part as strange lovers. Won't that be much more romantic?"

"But the parting?" he objected.

"You're not a bit like Romeo, are you? You know he said that parting is such sweet pleasure."

"What did he know about it? He never parted from you."

She laughed happily and they kissed again. Presently, she said slowly, "There's another thing about our waiting for years and years to marry. Do you remember what you said that first night we talked together, about wanting a thing so intensely and so long that finally when you could have it, you didn't want it?"

"Why, Camilla, you don't mean that we could change our minds over, about wanting each other?"

"It could happen, Peter."

"Oh, sure, even lots of people who marry, change their minds about each other afterward. But not us."

"But that isn't what I mean, dear. I don't think we ever could do that, if we have each other and share everything as we go along. We shall develop together then. But if we have to live on hope alone and go our separate ways, we may drift apart in our interest, and then that we are not what each other wanted. There's a phrase running in my mind that someone wrote. The sickening pang of hope deferred. Doesn't that sound ominous?"

"Whatever it is, we are going to take no chances with it," Peter declared.

"But, say," she held him off suddenly. "I'm doing all the arguing about this. It sounds as if I were trying to make you marry me against your will."

"Darling, you know that isn't true. You are only convincing me that you are willing to take a bigger chance with me than I have any right to ask of you. Yet I am selfish enough to ask you to risk though I love you better than anything in life," he told her tenderly.

"Because you love me better than anything in life," she corrected him. (To Be Continued.)

White fingers still
The bloom and song of earth,
No heart can guess
The loveliness
Of summer's lyric mirth.

Until love goes
Nobody knows
What light it gave the days,
What charm it lent,
What bliss content
It shed on all life's ways.

Yet, sweet, though soon
The flowers of June
In fragrant dust must lie,
Cling close, keep near
And never fear
Our rose of love can die.

Captain A. St. John Transmits Knowledge To Young Sailors

Looking through the window of his in the customs building, high above St. John harbor, Captain Richard Pollock watches incoming ships manned and commanded by former students of his little navigation school.

Fifteen years ago Captain Pollock left a sanatorium out west where he had been confined by serious illness and noticed an advertisement for a navigation instructor at St. John, N.B. He applied for and obtained the position.

Since then he has instructed hundreds of young men eager to sail on the modern ships of commerce. Some students have gone from distant Canadian points in order to receive instruction from the captain.

The school has two rooms, one main section where aspirants for a master's certificate pore over problems in trigonometry and astronomy, and another for the captain, a salty looking room with sextants, maps and other instruments of the navigator's art.

Captain Pollock went to sea at the age of sixteen, sailing from Greenock, Scotland. Now he gives his knowledge of navigation to younger and stronger men anxious to follow the ocean trails.

A Spring Balance Of Quartz Glass

Can Be Melted Only In The Hottest Of Flames

Quartz is one of the most difficult to melt of all materials. It softens and forms a glass only in the hottest of flames. Yet it is used to make the spiral springs used as delicate balances in certain laboratory research. Such quartz spiral balances are being used at the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Department of the Interior, by workers in the Pulp and Paper Division, Montreal, for the investigation of the relationship between water and paper-making pulps.

The quartz is melted in a flame of oxygen and acetylene and drawn into long threads about the thickness of a hair. By the aid of a somewhat less intense flame, these threads are coiled into delicate springs about half an inch in diameter. Enclosed in glass apparatus from which air is removed, they make possible the weighing to extreme accuracy of small samples of pulp. The extension of the quartz spring, read by a small telescope to an accuracy of a thousandth of an inch, indicates the weight of the sample suspended on it.

Little Helps For This Week

"God, even our Father, who hast loved us, and given us everlasting consolation and good hope through grace, comfort your hearts and establish you in every good word and work." — 2 Thessalonians 2:16, 17.

When sorrow all our heart would nak, We need not shun our daily task, And hide ourselves for shame; The herbs we seek to heal our woes Familiar by our pathway grow, Our common air is balm. — J. Kable.

When we turn away from some duty or some fellow creature saying our hearts are too sick and sore with some great yearning of our own, we may sever the line on which a divine message was coming to us. We shut out the man, and we shut out the angel who had sent him on to open the door. There is a plan working in our lives, and if we keep our hearts quiet and our eyes open it all works together; and if we do not it all fights together and keeps on fighting till it comes right somehow, somewhere. — Annie Keary.

Edmonton Beach Land Case.

The Barrie v. Nichol case, a dispute over the occupancy of part of the foreshore at Edmonton Beach, came up before His Honor Judge Crawford in the District court, in Edmonton, Thursday last, and engaged the attention of the court for some considerable time. The action was in the nature of a test case, evidence showing that on all rivers and lakes in the Dominion the land between high-water mark and the water's edge can never belong to any person, but remains in perpetuity the property of the Crown. It was to establish that such an exception exists in the case of Cottage Lake that Barrie, owner of a quarter section at this lake brought action against John Nichol, and won his case.

The evidence was that Barrie had bought a complete quarter section of 160 acres—54 acres was land above water, and the balance, including the island, lay under the surface of the lake. A check-up showed that the entire 160 acres belonged to whoever was the legal owner of this quarter.

Nichol is said to have taken the view, that the foreshore on this quarter was the same as the foreshore of any other land touching water—the foreshore was the property of the Crown. He is said to have a pier and rented boats on the beach of Barrie's quarter, and declined to cease operations on request.

Barrie only asked for $1 damages, which the court awarded along with costs.

Geo. J Bryan appeared for Barrie. C E Garpy of Edmonton represented Nichol.

Walther League Rally.

The Stony Plain Walther League held their annual rally on Sunday last, the 22d., in St Matthew's Schoolhouse No 1. Visitors were present from Edmonton, Fort Sask'n and Stony Plain district. There were about 65 present at the meeting.

The principal speakers were Rev H J Boettcher of Edmonton, Rev H Frye of Zion church at Golden Spike, and Mr Ph Enders.

The afternoon was spent in a song service and games; refreshments were served by the committees.

At 8 p.m. a special service was conducted by the Rev Hapkyda, which was well attended.

After this service a social was held, in honor of the visitors.

Liberals to Meet on Nov. 8th

In preparation for the coming election to the House of Commons and determined to create a winning organization and to nominate a victorious candidate, Liberals of the newly-created Federal constituency of Jasper Edson (of which Stony Plain and district form a part) will convene in Edmonton Wednesday, Nov. 8th. Hon. Charles Stewart is said to have agreed to allow his name to go before the convention as a candidate. A number of Mr Stewart's friends are of the opinion that he will carry the convention; with many going so far as to say that he will be its unanimous choice.

Stony Plain and District

Madame Gertrude, palmist, phrenologist, psychic reader, was a visitor in Stony Saturday last, to meet her patrons. She will return here Monday next, the 30th.

Sergeant Jim Smith, R.C.M.P. was renewing friendships in Stony on Saturday afternoon.

Mr Carl Enders, who has been farming in the Wembley district for several years, is holding a sale about Nov. 1st, preparatory to moving back here.

Messrs Pailer and Bittner left on Monday for Wabamun, where they're putting the finishing touches on the new R. C. church.

Teachers of Wetaskiwin inspectorate will hold their convention next week. Mr John Kulak, well known here, is the president.

A mortgage sale of farm property is billed to be held at Stony Plain's Postoffice on Saturday next, the 28th. The property is said to lie a short distance north of town.

On Monday, Evg. next the congregation of St Philip's church will hold their annual chicken supper in Moose hall.

Stony's record for runaways last week was two within four days. In addition to the one on Tuesday, one occurred at 10.54 a.m. Friday, when a team standing in front of a Main St. shop took fright and bolted. Their driver ran after the outfit, climbed aboard the wagon, grabbed the reins, and soon had the horses under control.

The Ladies' Aid of Holborn United Church will hold a chicken supper on Saturday, Oct. 28, in the Hall.

Those wishing to make an investment of their money in a well-established, up to date, enterprising burg will have an opportunity November 4th, as this town will be putting a number of good choice lots and several parcels of business and house property up for sale to the highest bidders. When the West wakes up and manufactures goods up to its needs, suitable sites for the proposed industries will be at a premium. As is fairly well known, Edmonton realtors in general hold the opinion that Stony Plain would make an ideal industrial center—one advantage being its accessibility to the Capital of the Province with its splendid distributing facilities; and also to the fact of Stony being situated on two trans-continental railway lines. The doings at the forthcoming sale will disclose whether any of our wideawake minded men will be willing to discount the future by making an investment.

¶ Have you ever noticed the reaction of some men to a runaway? About fifty per cent. of the spectators scramble out to the middle of the road, waving all their arms, apparently in an effort to "shoo" the animals over to where cars are parked or where there's shop windows to be broken.

¶ Overproduction of food supplies there may be, but the discovery or the development of new things to eat still goes on, says a writer in the Edmonton Journal. One of the latest additions to the list is in the top row—a cross between the tomato and the pepper, and is described as "tasting like a mild pepper. Some doubt seems to exist as to whether the new product is a fruit or a vegetable." One of these days some Alberta plant-doctor may find a way of crossing spring wheat and wild strawberries and getting thereby the most delicious ready-to-eat breakfast food the world has ever known.

¶ In this week's mail: Editor Sun: Just a line about the broadcasts which reach us—How's it you can rarely hear a programme any evening without running into that old dirge: "Heading for the last round-up?" As a singer, he'd make a good hog caller. Listeners on Saturday the 11th had the "pleasure" of hearing him and his "Get along, little Doggie" twice within the space of two hours, and each item appeared to be given under the auspices of the C. R. Commission. As this cowboy has been traveling to his last round-up for the past three months, the Grand Mogul of Broadcasting should check up his mileage and run him in a nearby kraal.
